

PRINCESS TURNS LIER'S DECK INTO HORSE'S BARNYARD

And High Waves Nearly Reach
Royal Steed Slung on Highest Level.

Henri, a hammock-backed horse with long, curly hair, once the pride of the stables of Emperor Franz Joseph—so says his present owner, the Princess Lwoff-Parlaghi—is a distinguished passenger on the Kronprinzessin Cecilie, which docked to-day, forty-eight hours overdue because of heavy storms.

Upon the boat deck were a special stall for Henri, a house for his valet, whose wages are paid indirectly by those who engage the Princess to paint his portraits, and another house for his fodder. Often seas swept over the boat deck, although it is the highest on the ship, and sprayed Henri's hoofs. Since this was obviously uncomfortable for the pet of royalty, a sling was arranged that not only lifted Henri's hoofs from the deck, but softened the jarring of the plunging vessel into an easy, swinging motion.

The Princess will live, as usual, at the "Lana," and accommodations will be found for Henri in the neighborhood, for when the Princess is not painting she expects to ride through the park—yes, on Henri.

The New Amsterdam of the Holland-American line, as well as the Kronprinzessin Cecilie, showed many scars when she docked to-day, one day late. In leaving Rotterdam, Nov. 25, the New Amsterdam had to nose her way slowly through a heavy fog. On the following Tuesday she ran into a heavy north-west gale, and seven sailors were sent to lash down a half-dozen collapsible lifeboats forward of the bridge. A sea rose over the starboard bow, swept away the lashing and smashed the boats back against the superstructure. Adrian J. Matheson, a seaman, went along with the waves and his right leg and ankle were broken when he brought up against the rail.

The steamer was in panic during the storm. Seven-year-old children were thrown from their beds. In the first cabin Mrs. Hebeon Lamar's grip on a lantern was shaken and she tumbled into the main saloon from the top of the grand staircase. She was painfully wounded.

On Wednesday and Thursday the weather moderated, but on Thursday the liner ran into a port-wind hurricane, she was able to make only a hundred knots a day in the teeth of it, and there was a marked absence of passengers from meals.

Capt. Hagemann of the Kronprinzessin Cecilie, said he never had encountered such a storm as that through which he brought his vessel. During an eighty-mile gale which raged Friday night, a sea climbed aloft to the boat deck, sixty feet above the surface normally, and twisted the heavy rail like a bit of wire. Badly and for days also were stormy. Both vessels found further delay after leaving Quarantine. Bay and river were extremely foggy.

J.B. DUKE A SPECTATOR AT INDEPENDENT'S SUIT AGAINST TOBACCO TRUST

Trial Opens With Controversy
Over Evidence Plaintiff Seeks to Bring In.

The suit of John A. Locker, an independent tobacco dealer, against the American Tobacco Company for $500,000 damages, his claim being based on Section 7 of the Sherman Anti-trust act, was continued to-day before Judge Mayer and a jury in the United States District Court.

The trial opened with a controversy between counsel as to what parts of the testimony taken in the Government's suit, which resulted in the dissolution of the American Tobacco Company, should be admitted as evidence. Portions of the testimony in the Government's suit, which concerned the claim of the Metropolitan Tobacco Company's contention that it was not a subsidiary concern of the American Tobacco Company, were finally admitted as evidence by Judge Mayer, and they were read to the jury.

James B. Duke entered the court room shortly after the opening of the trial. Throughout his stay in the court room he sat on the edge of his chair and, leaning forward, listened intently to the proceedings. A deposition taken from him in the local offices of the American Tobacco Company by the plaintiff's attorneys was read. Nearly every answer was ruled out by Judge Mayer, but some were not successfully objected to or were allowed by the defense, and were admitted as evidence.

Mrs. Locker, wife of the plaintiff, was in court and seemed interested in the reading of the Duke deposition. She sat beside her husband.

WIDOWS' PENSION BILL IS PASSED IN HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Nearly five thousand widows and minor children of veterans of the Spanish-American war or the Philippine insurrection would receive pensions under the Crago bill, passed to-day by the House without debate.

The bill provides that the widow of any officer or enlisted man who served ninety days during the Spanish-American war or the Philippine insurrection between April 21, 1898, and July 4, 1902, on certain conditions, shall receive a pension of $12 a month. For each minor child, the widow would receive $2 and in case of the widow's death the $12 would be paid to the child or children. It is estimated that about $1,000,000 would be added to pension appropriations by the measure.

DELICATESSEN SALMON TASTES GOOD TO COURT, BUT DEALER PAYS FINE

For the Can Was Sold Sunday to a Man Who Was Collecting Evidence.

Harlem Court was the scene of a can opening, salmon judging contest to-day which resulted in cut fingers, judicial scraps of wisdom, the pleasure of meeting John Burke, of the Committee of Grocery Clerks, and a fine for John Muller, who runs a delicatessen store at No. 278 Eighth avenue.

There is a law forbidding a delicatessen store to keep open after 10 o'clock Sunday morning. Last Sunday John Burke went into Muller's store and bought one can of salmon for 25 cents. Not that Burke needed the salmon, but he wanted to buy it illegally from Muller because the more delicatessen stores convicted of Sunday selling the less chance of big grocers keeping open on Sunday to the consequent detriment of several thousand who belong to Burke's calling.

After John Muller had been duly bailed before Magistrate O'Connor his attorney protested that there was no evidence against his client.

"There is but a can with a label," said Leon Prince, the attorney.

"Open it," requested Burke.

"Go ahead," ordered O'Connor. Court Attendant Heffernan went at the can with a penknife. After several jars he wrapped up a cut forefinger.

Just then John McGee, who looks "em up," approached with a trusty can-opener and opened the tin.

"Till taste it," said Magistrate O'Connor, breaking off the head of a match and spearing a lump of the pink contents. He smacked his lips.

"Salmon," he announced judicially. "Salmon," repeated Assistant District Attorney Pollette, who used another match.

"Salmon," said Heffernan and McGee and Burke the judge.

The can was getting low when it came Muller's turn to try.

"It is," he admitted.

"Five dollars," said O'Connor.

GEN. STAHEL, WHO HAUNTED MADISON SQUARE, IS DEAD.

Noted Civil War Veteran, Who Made Name as Union Cavalry
Commander, Expires at 88.

Madison Square's general is dead. The striking, soldier-like figure with the kindly face, the white-haired old man who had a smile and a good word for every younger man in the park until a short while ago, Major-General Julius Stahl, died to-day. He was eighty-eight years old.

Gen. Stahl was ranked only by Gen. Daniel Sickles as a corps commander of the Civil War. He had a distinguished record as the commander of the cavalry of the Army of the Potomac and the Eleventh Army Corps. He was severely wounded in the battle of Piedmont, June 5, 1862, when he made a name for himself which will live in the military annals of the country.

Twenty-nine years later, in Stahl was awarded a medal by the War Department for his gallantry in battle.

For years Gen. Stahl resided at the Hoffman House, and it was only a step to Madison Square. He spent most of his time there and became well known to all its habitués. Recently Gen. Stahl has been living at the Hotel St. James, No. 109 West Forty-fifth street.

Bombs as Suffragette Weapons.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—The militant suffragettes decided at a recent meeting to resort to the use of explosives in the event of the Government refusing to incorporate women's suffrage in the forthcoming franchise bill, according to a statement issued by a news agency to-day. Volunteers are to be called for to use bombs both inside and outside the House of Commons.

Avoid Soothing Syrups

Cure Your Cough by Nature's Method

The danger in using soothing syrups and patent medicines for coughs and colds lies in the fact that they so often contain drugs and opiates. These deaden the functions instead of supplying the healing ingredients that assist Nature to throw off the germs that cause the trouble.

To secure immediate relief and to break up the most severe cold inside a single day, shake together in a bottle a couple of ounces of glycerine, eight ounces of whiskey and half an ounce of Virgin Oil of Pine, and take a teaspoonful every four hours. This is a natural remedy and entirely harmless.

Any druggist can supply you with genuine Virgin Oil of Pine, which comes only in sealed half-ounce vials in wooden cartons bearing the label of The Leach Chemical Co., Cincinnati.

SULZER PUTS IN A BILL TO RELOCATE THE LINE OF NORTH RIVER PIERS

Congress Measure Aims to Solve Problem of Docking
Great Ocean Liners.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Relocation of the pier head line in the North River between Pier No. 1 and West Thirtieth street, Manhattan, to meet the need of the greater steamships was proposed in a bill introduced to-day by Representative Sulzer, Governor-elect of New York. The bill was drafted by the New York Board of Trade and Transportation, whose president, Frank Brainerd, and secretary, Frank S. Gants, were in conference at the Capitol to-day.

The bill would establish a line 100 feet westerly between the present line at Pier 1 and West Twenty-second street, and extending as far as the present pier head line opposite West Thirtieth street. Secretary Gardner said to-day his organization had delayed urging this legislation until now pending the development of the city's plans for water front improvement.

Congressman Sulzer has told his friends in this city for some time that he felt Congress ought to come to the aid of this city in its effort to provide facilities for the docking of the modern 1,000 foot steamships. The extension here authorized would afford the necessary immediate relief, and is in line with the action of the Secretary of War in recommending a general realignment of the river and harbor docks of New York made when he refused to extend piers on the Hoboken water front.

JAIL FOR AUCTIONEER.

Gets Thirty Days for Running Fake
Room for Shoppers.

Louis J. Abrams, thirty-eight years old, who lives at No. 210 West Ninety-eighth street, who conducted an "auction room" at No. 30 East Twenty-third street, was to-day sent to prison for thirty days and fined $100 for conducting a mock auction. In passing sentence Presiding Justice Steiner in the Court of Special Sessions said that in convictions of this character the Court intended to give jail sentences and to do its utmost to stop this sort of fake.

Abrams was convicted under Section 943 of the Penal Code on the complaint of Bernard Fitzpatrick, an inspector in the Commissioner of Accounts' office, who testified that on Oct. 26 last he went into the "auction" room and hid on a soap ladder. The successful bidder on the article, however, was one James Peters, who got the ladder for 50 cents. Peters was placed on the stand and explained to the Court that he was in the employ of Abrams.

QUICK MRS. HORNSTEIN LOSES IT HER SUIT FOR BREACHES OF PROMISE!

She Was in Such a Rush, Y'Un-derstand, That She Comes by the Court in Vain.

Such an impetuously did Mrs. Minna Hornstein have, that she spoiled it all. A quickness to get married to Paul Gitzendanner she had; Justice Garretson, by the Brooklyn Supreme Court, said, to-day, she sued for breaches of the promise too quick and she won't get that $15,000, y'understand!

Minna Hornstein used to be the wash-lady for Mrs. Gitzendanner at No. 54 Hancock street, before Mrs. Gitzendanner died in February of last year. So soon after that it was only two weeks, so Minna Hornstein says in being a witness, Mr. Gitzendanner makes her those proposals of marriage—those promises whose breaches she makes it a suit upon. They will be married in August, oh!

Comes August and no marriage—no Gitzendanner. So a suit Mrs. Hornstein brings and she has seven witnesses to say that they contradicted Mr. Gitzendanner on the coming marriage and he admitted it. But when in court, to-day, Gitzendanner's lawyer questions Minna Hornstein, "Did Gitzendanner tell you he'd promised his wife to wait a year before marrying again?" she has to say that's so.

"But you didn't wait a year before bringing suit for those breaches of promise, did you?"

Again Minna Hornstein says that's so. "Suit dismissed," then says that Justice Garretson.

"BLOOD IS THICKER THAN WATER"

Without good red blood a man has a weak heart and poor nerves. Thinness of the blood, or anæmia, is common in young folks as well as old. Especially is it the case with those who work in ill ventilated factories—or those who are shut up indoors in winter time with a coal stove burning up the oxygen or emitting carbonic (toxic) gas. This blood, or blood which lacks the red blood corpuscles, in anæmic people may have been caused by lack of food fresh air breathed into lungs, or by poor digestion or dyspepsia. Sometimes people suffer intense pain over the heart which is not heart disease at all, but caused by indigestion. Whatever the cause, there's just one remedy that you can turn to—knowing that it has given satisfaction for over 40 years.

YOUTH IN PAJAMAS VICTOR IN DESPERATE CHASE AFTER THIEF

Landlady's Son Hears Tenant
Brass-knuckled in Hall and Goes to Rescue.

William Aydelotte, aged twenty-two, who says he is a paperhanger, was held by Magistrate Voorhees in the Eighth Avenue Court, Brooklyn, this morning on charges of assault and burglary.

Mr. Haskell was absent in consequence of an encounter he had had with a burglar shortly after midnight at his home, No. 128 Lafayette street. Mr. Haskell succumbed to the force of a brass knuckle argument. He reached his house about midnight and was going upstairs when he was struck from behind. He grappled with his assailant, but couldn't hold on to him and rolled to the bottom of the stairs. The noise of the struggle aroused Sherman Shields, son of the landlady, who went in to see what was going on.

The burglar beat it down the front steps and Shields yelled all kinds of murder and dashed after him. Charles J. Kruger, a neighbor, was returning from a late session and the burglar passed him like the wind. Kruger also yelled and joined in the chase. Detective Mulreany and Policeman Beyer saw the flying burglar in the night and ducked into a doorway. They jumped out on the fugitive as he was going by and the chase was ended.

In Aydelotte's pocketbook $2.15 and his photograph were found. He told the police that he had been turned loose from Elmira two months ago after having spent nearly three years there. The
